

OUTSTANDING STUDENT LEADER AWARD

The Department of Nutrition and Dietetics recognizes outstanding students for their exceptional contributions to the department, the university and their greater community.

The Outstanding Student Leader Award recognizes undergraduate students who have exhibited exemplary contributions through their leadership in or outside of the classroom, personal integrity, and service to their student organization, the university and/or the greater community. All students majoring in nutrition and dietetics who are members of a nutrition or health-related student, community, or professional organization are eligible for consideration Outstanding Student Leader.

Instructions for Submitting Nominations:

Thank you for nominating a student for the student leader award! For the committee to evaluate your nomination, we request that you answer each of the following prompts completely and include examples of how the nominee excels in the following attributes.

Name of individual you would like to nominate: _____

Describe the nominee's participation or special responsibilities in volunteer work and/or in service-learning projects:

Describe contributions the nominee has made to SAND, other university and community organizations or as a student member of professional organizations (AND, NDNC, SNEB, other), as applicable:

SAMPLE

Describe other considerations that are unique to your nominee, such as honors received or other attributes that you would like to share:

SAMPLE

Nominated by: _____