

OUTSTANDING GRADUATING SENIOR AWARD

The Department of Nutrition and Dietetics recognizes outstanding students for their exceptional contributions to the department, the university and their greater community.

The Outstanding Graduating Senior Award recognizes seniors in each undergraduate degree offered within the Department, have exhibited academic excellence, and are leaders in the Department, on campus, in the profession of nutrition and dietetics, or their greater community. Students graduating in May, August, or December with a B.S. in Dietetics degree or a B.S. in Human Nutrition degree are eligible for consideration in their respective majors.

Instructions for Submitting Nominations:

Thank you for nominating a student for the student leader award! For the committee to evaluate your nomination, we request that you answer each of the following prompts completely and include examples of how the nominee excels in the following attributes.

Name of individual you would like to nominate: _____

Major: _____

Describe the nominee's participation or special responsibilities in volunteer work and/or in service-learning projects:

Describe contributions the nominee has made to SAND, other university and community organizations or as a student member of professional organizations (AND, NDNC, SNEB, other), as applicable:

SAMPLE

Describe other considerations that are unique to your nominee, such as honors received or other attributes that you would like to share:

SAMPLE

Nominated by: _____